About Red Bull Racing Honda

Red Bull Racing was founded in 2005 with the goal of shaking up the world of Formula One and doing things a bit differently. With Christian Horner, the youngest Team Principal in the paddock, at the helm the Team took the sport by storm claiming four back to back Formula One World Constructors' and Drivers' Championships between 2010 and 2013 against the greats such as Ferrari and McLaren. Since then the Team has never finished outside of the top four in the Constructors' Championship and by the end of 2020 had achieved 64 race wins, 183 podiums, 68 fastest laps and 63 pole positions. In 2021 the Team will be powered by Honda and fields Dutch ace Max Verstappen alongside Mexican driver Sergio Perez. The Team is also home to the world's fastest pit stop crew, with a Guinness World Record breaking time to change four wheels of 1.82 seconds.

Red Bull Racing Honda is based in Milton Keynes on the Red Bull Technology Campus where it works closely with sister companies Red Bull Advanced Technologies and the newly formed Red Bull Powertrains Ltd.
